eased, and that we should have had the pleasure of ex ending to our friends a participation in the consequent passed, and that we should have had the pleasure of extending to our friends a participation in the consequent rehef we should ourselves enjoy. But unhappily, inteligence telegraphed this evening has unexpectedly and utterly dissipated the hope so confidently cherished, and compelled us to announce our suspension, as we now do with an overwhelming sensation of pain. In so doing we ask your reasonable consideration for a statement nocessarily so brief at this late hour, assuring the public that details will justify the general one now made, viz. that the long continued stringency in the money market, both at home and abroad, the consequent rapid decrease in our deposits, disappointment in negotiating a large amount of security on which we have advanced, and maturing obligations still heavy and urgent, are the immediate causes which have conspired to produce our misfortune.

We assure our friends we'believe our suspension is but temporary; that our assets. "partnership and private," will exceed our liabilities by upwards of three millions of dollars; and as soon as our books are written up we shall make a statement of our affairs as full and satisfactory as the public could desire.

Dr. Hunter on Catarrh—Letter 2.

TO THE EUROGO PTHE NEW YORK WHALD.

Str.—I now come to the consideration of catarrh.

From the frequency of catarrhal affections as forerunners of genuine tubercular consumption, the relationship between "colds, coughs, and consumption" is unquestionably that of cause and effect. Too much attention cannot be given to this fact.

By "catarrh," commonly called "a cold in the head,"

I mean an it flammatory affection of the nuccous membrane that lines the nose. This membrane extends downwards, lining also the throat, larynx, windpipe, and bronchial tubes. Welfreathe through the nose; hence that part of the nuccous membrane which lines the nasal passages, first receives injury from sudden changes of temperature in the air, or from any irritating matter it may contain. There are two kinds of catarrh,
"acute" and "chronic."

The symptoms of "acute catarrh" are, first, a sense of heat and stuffing in the nose. You find it impossible to breathe through the nostrils, although there is no secretion—the membrane is "dry." If you could now examine the lining of the nostril, you would find it red, swollen, increased in thickness, and very irritable. Try to inhale the cold air through it, and the attempt excites "sneezing."

This jrritation may extend from the lining of the nose

"meeting."
This irritation may extend from the lining of the nose to the frontal sinus, when we have "pain" over the total control of the con

Physician for diseases of the lungs, $28 Broatway, New York, January 2, 1855.

Dr. Sanborn's Treatment of Lung Diseases by inhaling medicated vapors, as used at the New York Lung Institute, No. 6 Bond street.—During thirty years of actual professional life I have ever made it a rule' to thoroughly investigate every new medical doctrine and theory which bore the semblance of reason and practicability. It is a physician's duty to alleviate and prevent human suffering, and use every means and remedy which are calculated to accomplish this object, it matters not from what source it springs, or who was its discoverers. A few years, since, from observation and experience, I became convinced that the common practice which has been in existence so long, of administering medicine into the stomach for the cure of chronic diseases of the lungs and throat, was, in a great majority of cases, more injurious than beneficial—hence, of last years, I have almost abandoned that practice. I never recollect of having cured a well-marked case of consumption by giving the patient drugs. And I fully believe recollect of having cured a well-marked case of consumption by giving the patient drugs. And I fully believe that any consumptive person will live longer, and sufficient, by not taking drugs into the stomach than they will with. In regard to the system of inhalation introduced by Dr. Sanborn, at the New York Lung institute, it wish to give my candid opinion in regard to its merits, and the good results it is destined to accomplish, condi-intly believing that it will spile the accompli

To the Friends of Temperance.—As the mdical faculty everywhere, and even temperance organizations, and the stringent liquor laws of New England recognize alcoholic atimulants as remedial agents in the treatment of disease, I presume that, in having introduced a pure and truly bygean form of spirit into the materia medica, I cannot be charged with heatility to the temperance cause.

The "Aromatic Scheidam Schnapps," manufactured at my distillery in Scheidam, Holland, is a perfectly pure article, which physicians have heretofore been unable to obtain in this country, and which, from being flavored and impregnated with the finest oil of Italian juniper, is invaluable in cases of gravel, gout, and all acute and chrenic affections of the bladder and kidneys, as well as agercrally as a durette and invigorant. I have now in my possession letters from two thousand of the first physicians in the United States, endorsing the purity of the article, setting forth its curative properties, and permitting me to refer to all the writers who may desire their personal assurances as a further guarantee. The most distinguished professor of medical sclence in the North, the Eouth, the East, and the West, will sustain me when I assert that "Wolfe's Aromatic Scheidam Schnapps" is superior to any other alcoholic preparation as a medicine. I, therefore, refer all skepties upon this subject to the leading physicians of any city of the Union for full confirmation of my statements.

If it were practicable so to do, within the limits of a circular, I might cite a thousand cases from my voluminous correspondence in which the "Schnapps" has been of priceless benefit to invalids.

Whether spirituous liquor be used as a medicine or an occasional beverage, it is of the greatest moment that it be pure. Adulterated liquor is poison; and the present high price of brandy abroad offers a premium for its adulteration which few foreign holders can withstand. Here the process of deterioration is all but universal; and the man whose taste has not been e

Those who use other liquors cannot always obtain the same branis; they may have a good article to-day, a poorer one to-morrow, a bad one the next day. But the "schnapps" is always the same pure, renovating and remedial preparation. It never varies in quality.

As a matter of course, (it is the fate of everything invaluable,) the "schnapps" is extensively counterfeited. Unprincipled retailers, in many instances, after emptying the bottles of the genuine "Schiedam," have filled them up again with common gin, and sold that poisonous abomination as "Wolfe's Aromatic Schnapps." I have, however, sent such instructions to my agents on this subject, as I trust will put a stop to the imposition, and it is my determination to expose and prosecute all to whom the fraud can be brought home.

Put up in quart and pint bottles, with my name on the bottle, cork and label. For sale by all the respectable druggists in the United States.
